hatya 2023: Strategies for Adaptation to Climate Change in a Transformative Approach Jaap M. de Heer, Giasuddin Ahmed Choudhury, 2025-07-28 The Bangladesh experience shows that adaptation to climate change needs to be seen in conjunction with existing and changing weather patterns, natural hazards and the natural resources systems. Moreover, adaptation to climate change has next to the physical and technical content a socio-economic dimension in relation to the many societal and economic aspects of water resources and climate change. Adaptation, in terms of strategy making and implementation, is thus embedded in a countries' society with its traditions, technologies, governance and policies. This means that adaptation strategy making and implementation, while focusing on the physical system and use of technologies, are primarily cultural processes, characterized by a struggle for meaning in uncertainty, sense making and sense giving to define the issues and challenges and formulate strategies, thinking about appropriate measures, taking action and managing transformation. Besides, the power-related aspects of negotiation and decision-making including budget allocation for investments are evident as well. The BDP 2100 is a strategic plan with many techno-economic analyses, choices and proposals while it is basically 'an expression of the politics of culture' (De Heer, 2009, 2013).

After his retirement, he actively wrote about various contemporary social problems. His writings were well-researched and professionally authenticated. He got some of his writings published during his lifetime. He passed away in March 2011 at the age of ninety-four, he kept adding to his writings till his last breath. His personal stenographer, Sri R.K. Singh, transcribed and saved his writings in an obsolete desktop publishing program 'PageMaker' in about seventy files. Unfortunately, Sri R.K.Singh met with a fatal accident in 2010 and these files could not be opened for more than ten years. Finally in 2022, Sri Hitesh Singh Bisen who runs Booksclinic Publishing, could successfully open and convert these files into Word/PDF formats. This opened a great treasure of Sri Purushottam Singh Yog's writings which bring out the root causes for the present-day world crisis due to widespread terrorism. His writings also point out the grave danger of converting India from 'Darul-Herb' to 'Darul-Islam' leading to the extinction of secular 'Sanatan Hindus' destroying not only the world's oldest and glorious 'Vedic' culture' but also threatening various other minorities having multiple religious faiths and cultures. He also authored a few essays and a collection of stories highlighting some social evils ailing our society. These writings being published in fifteen volumes, are of immense value in the context of our national integrity and for safeguarding the 'Hindu' culture and our ancient civilization which seems on the verge of extinction. They bring out many lesser-known facts, a knowledge of which may help the readers to revise their opinions for the benefit of Hindutva and our secular nation Bharat/India.

As the country moves towards independence and military dictatorship, Pirbhai's granddaughters—sisters Latika, Mayuri, and Kiya—come of age in a divided nation, each forging her own path for the future. Latika is an aspiring journalist with a fierce determination to fight for what she believes in. Mayuri's ambitions will take her farther away from her family than she ever imagined. And fearless Kiya will have to bear the weight of their secrets. Forced to flee Uganda during Idi Amin's brutal expulsion of South Asians in 1972, the family must start their lives over again in Toronto. Then one day news arrives that makes each generation question how far they are willing to go, and who they are willing to defy, to secure a place of their own in the world. A masterful and breathtakingly intimate saga of colonialism and exile, complicity and resistance, A History of Burning is a radiant debut about the stories our families choose to share—and those that remain unspoken.

hatya 2023: The Sense of Wonder Matthew Salesses, 2024-02-06 From the author of PEN/Faulkner finalist Disappear Doppelgänger Disappear and Craft in the Real World comes a smart, very meta take (Kirkus Reviews) on the ways Asian Americans navigate the thorny worlds of sports and entertainment when everything is stacked against them. An Asian American basketball star walks into a gym. No one recognizes him, but everyone stares anyway. It is the start of a joke but what is the punchline? When Won Lee, the first Asian American in the NBA, stuns the world in a seven-game winning streak, the global media audience dubs it The Wonder--much to Won's chagrin. Meanwhile, Won struggles to get attention from his coach, his peers, his fans, and most importantly, his hero, Powerball!, who also happens to be Won's teammate and the captain. Covering it all is sportswriter Robert Sung, who writes about Won's stardom while grappling with his own missed hoops opportunities as well as his place as an Asian American in media. And to witness it all is Carrie Kang, a big studio producer, who juggles a newfound relationship with Won while attempting to bring K-drama to an industry not known to embrace anything new or different. The Sense of Wonder follows Won and Carrie as they chronicle the human and professional tensions exacerbated by injustices and fight to be seen and heard on some of the world's largest stages. An incredibly funny and heart-rending dive into race and our collective imagination that lays bare our limitations before blasting joyfully past them (Catherine Chung). This is the work of a gifted storyteller at the top of his game.
