handprint outline: The Hand Brett Stephan Bass, 2017-04-19 Here we stand, you and I, gazing with wonderment at the heavens not realizing the breadth and depth of what we humans call "reality," defined by our dictionaries as "fidelity to nature." As a species, Homo sapiens, in Latin "wise person," has been the end result...so far...of a grand evolutionary experiment that has taken 4.54 billion years since the earth formed and our hominin species arrived 100,000-200,000 years ago, migrating from the Rift Valley of Africa, approximately 60,000 years ago, to populate the earth. So, why do you and I exist? Is existence, or conscious awareness, ephemeral; disposed of in a mere blink of a cosmic eye like a newspaper read and then discarded? Or rather, does human consciousness surrender its fleshy tomb to continue on a journey to a dimension housing a continuum beyond the current understanding of man? Physicists and astronomers continue a slow and deliberate trek to attempt to unmask the composition and complexion of "reality." In their quest to reconcile Einstein's general relativity, the world we live in, with the quantum world, the subatomic building blocks which make life possible, scientists have been met with seemingly insurmountable obstacles defying attempts to untangle the grand enigma of existence in order to construct a "Theory of Everything." Adding to the confusion, religious dogma desperately clings to tales of fiction intent on impeding man's search for the "truth." Emerson Alexander Weiss, in The Hand, admonishes us "not to walk through life with a blindfold shielding us from the illuminating light of enlightenment!" His quest to understand himself, and to unravel the mysteries of the universe, plots a course that is intended for Homo sapiens to contemplate in earnest in a quest to find eternity's gate!

handprint outline: Beast-People Onscreen and in Your Brain Mark Pizzato, 2016-02-22 A new take on our bio-cultural evolution explores how the inner theatre of the brain and its animal-human stages are reflected in and shaped by the mirror of cinema. Vampire, werewolf, and ape-planet films are perennial favorites—perhaps because they speak to something primal in human nature. This intriguing volume examines such films in light of the latest developments in neuroscience, revealing ways in which animal-human monster movies reflect and affect what we naturally imagine in our minds. Examining specific films as well as early cave images, the book discusses how certain creatures on rock walls and movie screens express animal-to-human evolution and the structures of our brains. The book presents a new model of the human brain with its theatrical, cinematic, and animal elements. It also develops a theory of rasa-catharsis as the clarifying of emotions within and between spectators of the stage or screen, drawing on Eastern and Western aesthetics as well as current neuroscience. It focuses on the inner movie theater of memories, dreams, and reality representations, involving developmental stages, as well as the hall of mirrors, ape-egos, and body-swapping identifications between human beings. Finally, the book shows how ironic twists onscreen—especially of contradictory emotions—might evoke a reappraisal of feelings, helping spectators to be more attentive to their own impulses. Through this interdisciplinary study, scholars, artists, and general readers will find a fresh way to understand the potential for interactive mindfulness and yet cathartic backfire between human brains—in cinema, in theater, and in daily life.

Ulan, a seasoned Khereid warrior, a man grounded in pragmatism, is summoned by the Great Khan. Haunted by whispers of his own ancestry, Ulan is tasked with silencing the growing panic and unraveling the truth. His investigation plunges him into a world of contorted bodies and whispered secrets, where the Mongol elite, cloaked in silk and fear, conceal ambitions as treacherous as the empire's internal struggles. Shamans speak of disturbed spirits and forgotten gods. Ancient texts reveal the Khökh Mönkh, the Blue Wolves, a shadowy sect led by the enigmatic Bridget Mosley, who seeks to wield the curse as a weapon to seize control. But even they cannot contain the escalating horror. Ulan's pursuit of the truth leads him beyond Karakorum's walls, into the vast steppe, where he encounters Naraa, a young shamaness whose wisdom defies her age. Together, they uncover a hidden truth, a secret buried by Genghis Khan himself, a secret that could shatter the empire's foundations. He learns the curse is not mere vengeance, but something far more profound, intertwined with the very soul of the Mongol Empire. As the line between the living and the spectral blurs, Ulan must confront not just a vengeful spirit, but the dark heart of his ancestors and the empire they forged. He must embrace a spiritual world he has long denied, forge uneasy alliances with a cunning Rus' merchant named Elina Petrova, and face the shadows of his own past, a past inextricably linked to the Khan's wrath. In the heart of Karakorum, amidst the spectral hordes unleashed by the Blue Wolves, Ulan faces his final test. He must decipher the Khan's true intent – a truth far more terrifying, and far more crucial, than mere revenge. For the Khan's curse was not a curse at all, but a desperate warning against a forgotten evil that now threatens to consume everything. The fate of the Mongol Empire, and Ulan's very soul, hang in the balance.
