Constructing Two Finger Mandolin Chords

Basic Principles

Two finger chords typically involve pressing down on two strings at specific frets, often leaving the remaining strings either muted or played open, depending on the desired sound. The core concept revolves around selecting two notes that define the chord's quality—major, minor, suspended, etc.—and positioning those notes to form a consonant harmony.

Key factors in construction include:

- Interval selection: The distance between the two notes (e.g., root and third, root and fifth).
- String choice: Which strings to press and which to leave open or mute.
- Fret positioning: Where on the fretboard the notes are played for the desired tonality.

Common Two Finger Chord Types on the Mandolin

Chord Type	Typical Notes	Example Positions	Description
-----	-----	-----	-----
Major	Root + Major Third	e.g., 2nd fret on D string + 2nd fret on G string	Bright, happy sound
Minor	Root + Minor Third	e.g., 2nd fret on D string + 1st fret on G string	Melancholic, somber tone
Suspended (sus2/sus4)	Root + Second or Fourth	e.g., 2nd fret on D + open G string	Creates tension, resolves to major/minor
Power Chords	Root + Fifth	e.g., 2nd fret on D + 4th fret on G	Used in rock and folk for a punchy sound
