In The Black Tulip (1850), the shortest of Dumas's most famous tales, the real hero is no Musketeer, but a flower. The novel - a deceptively simple story - is set in Holland in 1672, and weaves the historical events surrounding the brutal murder of John de Witte and his brother Cornelius into a tale of romantic love. The novel is also a timeless political allegory in which Dumas, drawing on the violence and crimes of history, makes his case against tyranny and puts all his energies into creating a symbol of justice and tolerance: the fateful tulipa negra. book the black tulip: The Black Tulip Alexandre Dumas, 2014-12-11 The Black Tulip By Alexandre Dumas Classic Novels The story begins with a historical event — the 1672 lynching of the Dutch Grand Pensionary (roughly equivalent to a modern Prime Minister) Johan de Witt and his brother Cornelis, by a wild mob of their own countrymen — considered by many as one of the most painful episodes in Dutch history, described by Dumas with a dramatic intensity. The main plot line, involving fictional characters, takes place in the following eighteen months; only gradually does the reader understand its connection with the killing of the de Witt brothers. The city of Haarlem, Netherlands, has set a prize of f100,000 to the person who can grow a black tulip, sparking competition between the country's best gardeners to win the money, honour and fame. Only the city's oldest citizens remember the Tulip Mania thirty years prior, and the citizens throw themselves into the competition. The young and bourgeois Cornelius van Baerle has almost succeeded but is suddenly thrown into the Loevestein prison. There he meets the prison guard's beautiful daughter Rosa, who will be his comfort and help, and eventually become his rescuer. The novel was originally published in three volumes in 1850 as La Tulipe Noire by Baudry (Paris).

book the black tulip: The Black Tulip Alexandre Dumas, 1902 One of Dumas' last novels of historical fiction, The Black Tulip tells the story of the 1672 lynching of Johan de Witt, the Dutch Grand Pensionary, and his brother, Cornelius, by a mob of Dutch men. The event has been considered one of the most painful episodes in Dutch history and is described by Dumas with great intensity in the novel. The plot surrounds two fictional characters and their lives in the 18 months following the lynching. The reader gathers that the main characters are directly related to the episode in the middle of the novel, adding to the understanding of how dramatic the event was for the Dutch people. The novel's minor plot revolves around the countrywide gardening competition that would award any man or woman who could grow a black tulip a substantial monetary prize. Once a middle-class man seems to be close to achieving this feat, he is arrested and thrown in prison. Dumas ends the novel with the prisoner meeting and falling in love with the prison guard's daughter, the recounting of the horrible 1672 lynching, and the famous quote by Cornelius de Witt: 'One has sometimes suffered enough to have the right never afterwards to say 'I am too happy.'
