Introduction to Wuthering Heights First Edition

The Wuthering Heights first edition marks the original publication of Emily Brontë's only novel, which has since become a cornerstone of English literature. Published in 1847 under the pseudonym Ellis Bell, this edition introduced readers to the tumultuous tale of love, revenge, and social class set amidst the bleak Yorkshire moors. Its initial reception was mixed, but over time, the novel gained recognition as a dark, intense masterpiece. This article explores the history, publication details, and significance of the first edition, along with its impact on literature and collectors' markets.

Historical Context of the First Edition

Emily Brontë and the Literary Landscape of the 1840s

Emily Brontë was part of a literary family, with her siblings Charlotte and Anne also producing influential works. The 1840s was a vibrant period for English literature, marked by the Romantic movement's decline and the rise of Victorian realism. However, Brontë's novel stood apart with its gothic themes, complex characters, and dark tone.

Publication Details of the 1847 Edition

The first edition of Wuthering Heights was published on December 20, 1847, by Thomas Cautley Newby in London. It was issued in a small octavo format, consisting of approximately 400 pages. The book was priced at 9 shillings, a typical price point for novels of that period.

Key features of the first edition include:

- Published under the pseudonym Ellis Bell, with Emily Brontë's real name not publicly revealed initially.
- The cover was a simple, cloth-bound design, common for the period.
- The text was printed in a clear, Victorian-style font, with minimal illustrations.
- The novel was divided into three books, with a total of 34 chapters.

Physical Characteristics and Variations of the First Edition

Binding and Cover Design

The original first edition of Wuthering Heights was bound in dark green cloth, with the title and author's pseudonym embossed in gold on the spine. The cover was plain, with no elaborate decoration, reflecting the modest publication style of the era.

Typography and Layout

The text was set in a serif font typical of Victorian printing, with clear paragraph indentations and justified alignment. The pages showed some foxing—brownish spots caused by age and paper quality—making early copies distinctive.

Types of Variations and Printing Errors

Collectors and bibliographers note that early copies of the first edition exhibit certain variations:

- Small typographical errors, such as misprints or misalignments.
- Variations in the binding, especially in later copies or rebindings.
- Differences in publisher's advertisements at the end of the book.

Content and Structure of the First Edition

Overview of the Narrative

The novel's first edition contains the same complex narrative structure that characterizes the work today. It employs a frame narrative, with Mr. Lockwood's perspective serving as the outer story, while the inner stories are told through Nelly Dean's recounting of events.

Chapter Breakdown

The first edition consists of 34 chapters, divided into three books:

1. Book One: Focuses on Heathcliff's arrival at Wuthering Heights and the early years.
2. Book Two: Delves into the childhood of Catherine and Heathcliff's relationship.
3. Book Three: Covers the subsequent generations and the resolution of the story's darker themes.

Major Themes Introduced in the First Edition

Readers of the first edition are introduced to themes such as:

- Obsessive love and revenge
- Social class and inheritance

- Nature versus nurture
- The destructive power of passion

Reception and Criticism of the First Edition

Initial Public and Critical Response

When first published, Wuthering Heights received mixed reviews. Some critics praised its originality, gothic elements, and emotional intensity, while others found its characters and themes too dark or unconventional.

Contemporary Criticism

Early critics often struggled with the novel's complex narrative structure and morally ambiguous characters. However, the novel's popularity among readers quickly grew, leading to increased recognition over time.

Impact on Literary Criticism

The first edition laid the groundwork for subsequent scholarly analysis, with critics exploring its themes of human psychology and social critique. Its reputation has grown, and it is now regarded as a seminal work of Victorian Gothic fiction.

Collectors' Value and Rarity of the First Edition

Collectibility and Market Value

Original first editions of Wuthering Heights are highly prized by collectors. Factors influencing their value include:

- Condition of the copy (intact dust jacket, minimal foxing)
- Presence of original binding and signatures
- Provenance and historical significance

As of 2023, a well-preserved first edition can fetch tens of thousands of dollars at auction.

Notable Copies and Their Histories

Some copies have notable provenance, such as being part of famous literary collections or owned by prominent figures. These copies often command higher prices.

Legacy and Significance of the First Edition

Role in Literary History

The first edition of Wuthering Heights marked Emily Brontë's entry into the literary world. Its publication challenged contemporary norms and introduced a new kind of dark, passionate storytelling.

Influence on Later Editions and Adaptations

Subsequent editions often corrected or expanded upon the original text. The first edition's text remains the authoritative version, although some modern editions include textual variants.

Cultural Impact

The novel's first edition set the stage for adaptations into film, television, and stage, cementing its influence in popular culture. Its themes continue to resonate, making the original publication a significant milestone.

Conclusion

The Wuthering Heights first edition represents a vital artifact in literary history, embodying the dark beauty and emotional depth that have made Emily Brontë's novel a timeless masterpiece. Its publication marked a bold departure from conventional Victorian literature, and its rarity and historical importance continue to fascinate collectors, scholars, and readers alike. Understanding the details of this original edition offers insight into the novel's initial reception, its enduring legacy, and the enduring power of Brontë's storytelling.

Wuthering Heights First Edition

wuthering heights first edition: Wuthering Heights Emily Bronte, 2018-06-05 Wuthering Heights is Emily Bronte's only novel. Written between October 1845 and June 1846, Wuthering Heights was published in 1847 under the pseudonym Ellis Bell; Brontë died the following year, aged 30. Wuthering Heights and Anne Brontë's Agnes Grey were accepted by publisher Thomas Newby before the success of their sister Charlotte's novel Jane Eyre. After Emily's death, Charlotte edited the manuscript of Wuthering Heights and arranged for the edited version to be published as a posthumous second edition in 1850. Although Wuthering Heights is now widely regarded as a classic of English literature, contemporary reviews for the novel were deeply polarised; it was considered controversial because its depiction of mental and physical cruelty was unusually stark, and it challenged strict Victorian ideals of the day regarding religious hypocrisy, morality, social classes and gender inequality. The English poet and painter Dante Gabriel Rossetti, although an admirer of the book, referred to it as A fiend of a book - an incredible monster [...] The action is laid in hell, - only it seems places and people have English names there.

wuthering heights first edition: Wuthering Heights Emily Bronte, 2020-09-13 Wuthering Heights is a historical fiction novel set in the early 1800's and written by Emily Bronte. It was originally published under the pseudonym Ellis Bell in 1847. It is her only finished novel. After Emily's death at 30 years old, her sister Charlotte edited second posthumous edition in 1850. Wuthering Heights is now considered classic literature, which influenced many subsequent authors of Romanticism pieces. However, public opinion of the book was deeply polarized at the time. It was controversial, because it challenged Victorian views of morality, religion, class, gender inequality, and feminism. It also provided an unusually blunt depiction of mental and physical cruelty. This beautiful reprint of Wuthering Heights is unabridged, preserving the original story for your reading pleasure. This book will make a wonderful gift for Bronte fans or a wonderful addition to your library of classic books! Excerpt: Wuthering Heights is the name of Mr. Heathcliff's dwelling. 'Wuthering' being a significant provincial adjective, descriptive of the atmospheric tumult to which its station is exposed in stormy weather. Pure, bracing ventilation they must have up there at all times, indeed: one may guess the power of the north wind blowing over the edge, by the excessive slant of a few stunted firs at the end of the house; and by a range of gaunt thorns all stretching their limbs one way, as if craving alms of the sun. Happily, the architect had foresight to build it strong: the narrow windows are deeply set in the wall, and the corners defended with large jutting stones. wuthering heights first edition: Wuthering Heights by Emily Bronte Emily Bronte, 2021-10-03

Wuthering Heights is an 1847 novel by Emily Brontë, initially published under the pseudonym Ellis Bell. It concerns two families of the landed gentry living on the West Yorkshire moors, the Earnshaws and the Lintons, and their turbulent relationships with Earnshaw's adopted son, Heathcliff. The novel was influenced by Romanticism and Gothic fiction. Wuthering Heights is now considered a classic of English literature, but contemporaneous reviews were polarised. It was controversial for its depictions of mental and physical cruelty, and for its challenges to Victorian morality and religious and societal values. Wuthering Heights was accepted by publisher Thomas Newby along with Anne Brontë's Agnes Grey before the success of their sister Charlotte's novel Jane Eyre, but they were published later. Charlotte edited a second edition of Wuthering Heights after Emily's death which was published in 1850. It has inspired an array of adaptations across several media, including English singer-songwriter Kate Bush's song of the same name.

It was first published in 1847 under the pseudonym Ellis Bell, and a posthumous second edition was edited by her sister Charlotte. The name of the novel comes from the Yorkshire manor on the moors on which the story centers. The narrative tells the tale of the all-encompassing and passionate, yet thwarted, love between Heathcliff and Catherine Earnshaw, and how this unresolved passion eventually destroys both of them and many around them. Now considered a classic of English literature, the novel's innovative structure, which has been likened to a series of Matryoshka dolls, met with mixed reviews by critics when it first appeared.
