lion king the monkey: No Biking in the House Without a Helmet Melissa Fay Greene, 2011-04-12 Dispatches from the new front lines of parenthood When the two-time National Book Award finalist Melissa Fay Greene confided to friends that she and her husband planned to adopt a four-year-old boy from Bulgaria to add to their four children at home, the news threatened to place her, she writes, among the greats: the Kennedys, the McCaughey septuplets, the von Trapp family singers, and perhaps even Mrs. Feodor Vassilyev, who, according to the Guinness Book of World Records, gave birth to sixty-nine children in eighteenth-century Russia. Greene is best known for her books on the civil rights movement and the African HIV/AIDS pandemic. She's been praised for her historian's urge for accuracy, her sociologist's sense of social nuance, and her writerly passion for the beauty of language. But Melissa and her husband have also pursued a more private vocation: parenthood. We so loved raising our four children by birth, we didn't want to stop. When the clock started to run down on the home team, we brought in ringers. When the number of children hit nine, Greene took a break from reporting. She trained her journalist's eye upon events at home. Fisseha was riding a bike down the basement stairs; out on the porch, a squirrel was sitting on Jesse's head; vulgar posters had erupted on bedroom walls; the insult niftam (the Amharic word for snot) had led to fistfights; and four non-native-English-speaking teenage boys were researching, on Mom's computer, the subject of saxing. At first I thought one of our trombone players was considering a change of instrument, writes Greene. Then I remembered: they can't spell. Using the tools of her trade, she uncovered the true subject of the saxing investigation, inspiring the chapter Everything You Always Wanted to Know About Sex, but Couldn't Spell. A celebration of parenthood; an ingathering of children, through birth and out of loss and bereavement; a relishing of moments hilarious and enlightening—No Biking in the House Without a Helmet is a loving portrait of a unique twenty first-century family as it wobbles between disaster and joy.

Havis, 2022-12-13 Creating a Black Vernacular Philosophy explores how everyday Black vernacular practices, developed to negotiate survival and joy, can be understood as philosophy in their own right. Devonya N. Havis argues that many unique cultural and intellectual practices of African diasporic communities have done the work of traditional philosophies. Focusing on creative practices that take place within Black American diasporic cultures via narratives, the blues, jazz, work songs, and other expressive forms, this book articulates a form of Black vernacular Philosophy that is centered within and emerges from meaning structures cultivated by Black communities. These distinct philosophical practices, running parallel with and often improvising on European philosophy, should be acknowledged for their rigorous theoretical formation and for their disruption of traditional Western philosophical ontologies.
