seven transitions into adulthood: Amazing Racers Marc Bloom, 2019-08-06 What would one call taking teens with no evident running talent and putting them through breakneck training combined with mantras from the rock n' roll, techniques from Kenya, philosophy from Australia and turning them champions? Is it revolutionary? Or just plain crazy? Bill Aris has heard both, but one thing is indisputable. Everything Aris does with his runners—male and female—is new and extraordinary, and he has created a new American running dynasty. The runners of Fayetteville-Manlius High School, or F-M, have won the last nine out of ten national championships and have the best cumulative record in cross country history. F-M's domination has shocked the sport for its defiance of accepted running principles and limitations. One year, the girls defeated the 2nd-place team in the country by an average of 59 seconds per girl in a 5k race. Another year, the F-M girls' ran faster than their Kenyan counterparts, who had come to Oregon as a showcase. Across the country, top coaches all whisper, "How do they do it?" From adopting long-forgotten Spartan creeds to focusing on teenaged developmental psychology and gender-blindness in training, The Running Revolutionaries is a must read for millions of runners and the millions more who strive for better performance.

seven transitions into adulthood: What Girls Need Marisa Porges, PhD, 2020-08-04 A powerful book about how we can raise girls to become bold, ambitious women. --Adam Grant What do girls really need to succeed? Children today face an uncertain future, and parents and teachers can't fully predict what's in store for their daughter and sons. But one thing is clear: Our kids need a new set of skills to succeed. Girls, in particular, must nurture essential traits to fully flourish. Students hit the ground running today, entering a school system that carries high expectations on their way to a college application process that is more demanding than ever. After school, young women enter a competitive job market, still complicated by sexism and the possibility of harassment. But the ways we define leadership are also changing, and the women stepping into those roles are mapping new paths to inhabiting traits like grit, resilience, audacity, and self-confidence. What Girls Need shows how parents and educators can foster these critical twenty-first-century skills in our girls and help them to recognize and nurture their inherent strengths—to not just thrive but also find joy and purpose as they come of age in our ever-evolving world. As a student at the all-girls Baldwin School outside of Philadelphia, Marisa Porges grew up in a community designed to produce strong, independent women. After graduating from Harvard, she fulfilled her childhood dream of flying jets off aircraft carriers for the U.S. Navy and served as a counterterrorism expert in Afghanistan and a cybersecurity advisor in the Obama White House. Then in 2016, in an unexpected move for someone whose ambitions had taken her so far from home, Porges returned to head the Baldwin School. In doing so, she saw how small moments in her early education gave her the tools she needed to excel in a “man’s world.” Combining compelling research, personal stories, and practical advice on timely questions, Porges delves into hot-button subjects like how to harness girls’ voices and boost girls’ self-esteem, and shows how little things have a big impact when nurturing vital skills like competitiveness, collaboration, empathy, and adaptability. What Girls Need empowers us to support the next generation of women so they can confidently hold their own no matter what the future has in store.

She examines the sexism, racism, and privilege that impact girls every day and shares innovative methods to teach basic concepts such as healthy girl culture, choice, identity, and leadership. In addition, Muno equips readers with strategies to help girls recognize their inherent worth, navigate societal pressures, and become change-makers. seven transitions into adulthood: A Liberation Theology of the Brain Carmelo Santos-Rolón, 2025-06-10 Drawing on experiences from the lab, the local congregation, the immigrant rights movement, the university classroom, the global church, and brain science, this book invites readers to discover the transformative possibilities that arise when we recognize that the insights of science and theology can complement and transform each other. Brain science and theology can be powerful partners in God's work of liberating all of us from the internalized structures of oppression that colonize imaginations, imprison emotions, subjugate bodies, and fracture societies. Trained as a scientist, a pastor, and a theologian, Carmelo Santos-Rolón brings together insights from various fields in neuroscience and the cognitive sciences (such as the neuroscience of religious experience, the neuroscience of emotions, the cognitive science of religion, and the neuroscience of decision-making) with data from liberation, postcolonial, decolonial, and Lutheran ecumenical theologies to analyze the spiritual experience of holistic liberation. The result is a theological framework, informed by science, that allows us to appreciate how the Spirit of God is at work in, with, and under neurons, bodies, and communities in all their beautiful messiness and complexity. In the tradition of liberation theologies, which insist that action and reflection belong together and must inform each other, this book aims at a theology with dirty hands and worn-out shoes. It is meant for a people who are not just intellectually curious about who God is and how religion affects our brains, but who are eager to join in God's work of bringing healing and hope to a wounded world. Theology and (neuro)science, together, allow us to witness how the Spirit of God is at work deep inside the nooks and crannies of our brains, in the chemistry of our nervous systems, in the emotions that orient our actions, and in the communities that shape our identities. Through tangible means, such as words and rituals, symbols and narratives, sacraments and community, God liberates us for lives of meaning and purpose at the service of the beautiful future that God is bringing into being.
