The Genesis of The Jungle Book

Origins and Inspirations

Published initially in 1894, The Jungle Book was a collection of stories inspired by Kipling's fascination with Indian wildlife and folklore. The tales are set in the Indian jungle, a lush, dangerous, and vibrant setting that Kipling knew intimately. Drawing from indigenous stories, animal fables, and his own observations, Kipling crafted narratives that reflect universal themes of survival, identity, and morality.

Kipling's love for storytelling was also influenced by the oral storytelling traditions of Indian and British cultures. His stories often feature animals that speak, think, and act with human-like intelligence, a literary device that allows for allegories on human nature.

Structure and Composition

The Jungle Book comprises several stories centered around Mowgli, a human boy raised by wolves, alongside standalone tales about other jungle inhabitants. The stories are woven together with recurring themes and moral lessons, often conveyed through the animals' perspectives. This structure allows Kipling to explore diverse facets of jungle life while maintaining a cohesive narrative universe.

The stories are written in a lively, rhythmic prose, reminiscent of oral storytelling, making them engaging for both children and adult readers. Kipling's use of dialect, vernacular expressions, and poetic devices adds authenticity and flavor to his storytelling.

Themes and Symbolism in The Jungle Book

The Nature of Civilization and Wilderness

One of the central themes in The Jungle Book is the contrast between civilization and the wild. Kipling explores how these forces coexist, clash, and influence each other through characters like Mowgli, who navigates his dual identity as a human and a jungle creature.

- Civilization is depicted as a complex construct with rules, morality, and social norms, represented by characters like Bagheera the panther and Baloo the bear.
- Wilderness symbolizes instinct, freedom, and the primal aspects of life, embodied by the jungle itself and its animal inhabitants.

The stories suggest that neither civilization nor wilderness is inherently superior; rather, harmony arises when both respect each other's domains.

Moral Lessons and Ethical Dilemmas

Kipling's stories are rich with moral lessons. For instance, Mowgli's journey involves learning about loyalty, bravery, and humility. The stories often present ethical dilemmas, such as:

- The importance of respecting nature's laws.
- The value of friendship and trust.
- The consequences of pride and arrogance.

Characters like Shere Khan, the tiger, serve as embodiments of evil or danger, providing clear moral contrasts that help illustrate the lessons.

Cultural and Colonial Context

While The Jungle Book is celebrated for its storytelling, it also reflects the colonial mindset of Kipling's era. Some critics argue that the stories portray a paternalistic view of Indian culture and nature, emphasizing themes of order, hierarchy, and dominance. However, others see the stories as a celebration of the rich diversity of the Indian landscape and its inhabitants.

rudyard kipling and the jungle book: The JUNGLE BOOK, RUDYARD KIPLING, LARGE 16 Point Print Rudyard Kipling, 2016-06-20 It was seven o'clock of a very warm evening in the Seeonee hills when Father Wolf woke up from his day's rest, scratched himself, yawned, and spread out his paws one after the other to get rid of the sleepy feeling in their tips. Mother Wolf lay with her big gray nose dropped across her four tumbling, squealing cubs, and the moon shone into the mouth of the cave where they all lived. Augrh! said Father Wolf. It is time to hunt again. He was going to spring down hill when a little shadow with a bushy tail crossed the threshold and whined: Good luck go with you, O Chief of the Wolves. And good luck and strong white teeth go with noble children that they may never forget the hungry in this world. It was the jackal-Tabaqui, the Dish-licker-and the wolves of India despise Tabaqui because he runs about making mischief, and telling tales, and eating rags and pieces of leather from the village rubbish-heaps. But they are afraid of him too, because Tabaqui, more than anyone else in the jungle, is apt to go mad, and then he forgets that he was ever afraid of anyone, and runs through the forest biting everything in his way. Even the tiger runs and hides when little Tabaqui goes mad, for madness is the most disgraceful thing that can overtake a wild creature. We call it hydrophobia, but they call it dewanee-the madness-and run. Enter, then, and look, said Father Wolf stiffly, but there is no food here. For a wolf, no, said Tabaqui, but for so mean a person as myself a dry bone is a good feast. Who are we, the Gidur-log [the jackal people], to pick and choose? He scuttled to the back of the cave, where he found the bone of a buck with some meat on it, and sat cracking the end merrily. All thanks for this good meal, he said, licking his lips. How beautiful are the noble children! How large are their eyes! And so young too! Indeed, indeed, I might have remembered that the children of kings are men from the beginning. Now, Tabaqui knew as well as anyone else that there is nothing so unlucky as to compliment children to their faces. It pleased him to see Mother and Father Wolf look uncomfortable. Tabaqui sat still, rejoicing in the mischief that he had made, and then he said spitefully: Shere Khan, the Big One, has shifted his hunting grounds. He will hunt among these hills for the next moon, so he has told me. Shere Khan was the tiger who lived near the Waingunga River, twenty miles away. He has no right! Father Wolf began angrily-By the Law of the Jungle he has no right to change his quarters without due warning. He will frighten every head of game within ten miles, and I-I have to kill for two, these days. His mother did not call him Lungri [the Lame One] for nothing, said Mother Wolf quietly. He has been lame in one foot from his birth. That is why he has only killed cattle. Now the villagers of the Waingunga are angry with him, and he has come here to make our villagers angry. They will scour the jungle for him when he is far away, and we and our children must run when the grass is set alight. Indeed, we are very grateful to Shere Khan! Shall I tell him of your gratitude? said Tabaqui. Out! snapped Father Wolf. Out and hunt with thy master. Thou hast done harm enough for one night. I go, said Tabaqui quietly. Ye can hear Shere Khan below in the thickets. I might have saved myself the message. Father Wolf listened, and below in the valley that ran down to a little river he heard the dry, angry, snarly, singsong whine of a tiger who has caught nothing and does not care if all the jungle knows it. The fool! said Father Wolf. To begin a night's work with that noise! Does he think that our buck are like his fat Waingunga bullocks? H'sh. It is neither bullock nor buck he hunts to-night, said Mother Wolf. It is Man. The whine had changed to a sort of humming purr that seemed to come from every quarter of the compass.

In this letter, Kipling confesses to borrowing ideas and stories in the Jungle Book: I am afraid that all that code in its outlines has been manufactured to meet 'the necessities of the case': though a little of it is bodily taken from (Southern) Esquimaux rules for the division of spoils, Kipling wrote in the letter. In fact, it is extremely possible that I have helped myself promiscuously but at present cannot remember from whose stories I have stolen.

rudyard kipling and the jungle book: The Jungle Book By Rudyard Kipling "Annotated" Rudyard Kipling, 2020-05-03 The Jungle Book is a collection of stories by English author Rudyard Kipling. The stories are fables, using animals in an anthropomorphic manner to give moral lessons. A principal character is the boy or man-cub Mowgli, who is raised in the jungle by wolves. Other characters include Shere Khan the tiger and Baloo the bear. The book has been adapted many times for film and other media. The tales in the book (as well as those in The Second Jungle Book, which followed in 1895 and includes five further stories about Mowgli) are fables, using animals in an anthropomorphic manner to teach moral lessons. The verses of The Law of the Jungle, for example, lay down rules for the safety of individuals, families, and communities. Kipling put in them nearly everything he knew or heard or dreamed about the Indian jungle. Other readers have interpreted the work as allegories of the politics and society of the time. A letter written and signed by Rudyard Kipling in 1895 was put up for auction in 2013 by Andrusier. In this letter, Kipling confesses to borrowing ideas and stories in the Jungle Book: I am afraid that all that code in its outlines has been manufactured to meet 'the necessities of the case': though a little of it is bodily taken from (Southern) Esquimaux rules for the division of spoils, Kipling wrote in the letter. rudyard kipling and the jungle book: The Jungle Book Rudyard Kipling, 2019-12-22 The Jungle Book (1894) is a collection of stories by English author Rudyard Kipling. The stories were first published in magazines in 1893-94. The original publications contain illustrations, some by Rudyard's father, John Lockwood Kipling. Kipling was born in India and spent the first six years of his childhood there. After about ten years in England, he went back to India and worked there for about six-and-a-half years. These stories were written when Kipling lived in Vermont. There is evidence that it was written for his daughter Josephine, who died in 1899 aged six, after a rare first edition of the book with a poignant handwritten note by the author to his young daughter was discovered at the National Trust's Wimpole Hall in Cambridgeshire in 2010. The tales in the book (and also those in The Second Jungle Book which followed in 1895, and which includes five further stories about Mowgli) are fables, using animals in an anthropomorphic manner to give moral lessons. The verses of The Law of the Jungle, for example, lay down rules for the safety of individuals, families and communities. Kipling put in them nearly everything he knew or heard or dreamed about the Indian jungle. Other readers have interpreted the work as allegories of the politics and society of the time. The best-known of them are the three stories revolving around the adventures of an abandoned man cub Mowgli who is raised by wolves in the Indian jungle. The most famous of the other stories are probably Rikki-Tikki-Tavi, the story of a heroic mongoose, and Toomai of the Elephants, the tale of a young elephant-handler. As with much of Kipling's work, each of the stories is preceded by a piece of verse, and succeeded by another. rudyard kipling and the jungle book: Rudyard Kipling, the Jungle Book Rudyard Kipling, 2018-08-20 The Jungle Book, collection of stories by Rudyard Kipling, published in 1894. The Second Jungle Book, published in 1895, contains stories linked by poems. The stories tell mostly of Mowgli, an Indian boy who is raised by wolves and learns self-sufficiency and wisdom from the jungle animals. The book describes the social life of the wolf pack and, more fancifully, the justice and natural order of life in the jungle. Among the animals whose tales are related in the work are Akela the wolf; Baloo the brown bear; Shere Khan, the boastful Bengal tiger who is Mowgli's enemy; Tabaqui the jackal, Shere Khan's obsequious servant; Kaa the python; Bagheera the panther; and Rikki-tikki-tavi the mongoose.

rudyard kipling and the jungle book: The Jungle Book (1894), by Rudyard Kipling, 2016-03-16 (Children's Classics) The adventures of Mowgli, an abandoned man-cub who is raised by wolves in the Indian jungle and many other tales in this book use animals in an anthropomorphic manner to give lessons. The other stories in this Fantastica edition include Rikki-Tikki-Tavi, a heroic mongoose, and Toomai of the Elephants, the tale of a young elephant-handler. This is the hour of pride and power, talon and tush and claw. Oh hear the call!-good hunting all that keep the Jungle Law! The Jungle Book contains seven short stories and seven poems. The first three stories are about Mowgli, while the remaining four each focus on different protagonists. On the night of a big hunt, Father Wolf and Mother Wolf discover a man's cub in the bushes, abandoned and naked. Mother Wolf immediately decides she will raise him as one of her own cubs, much to the tiger Shere Khan's dismay. Shere Khan believes the child was his to eat, and he is not happy to be turned away. Mother Wolf names the child Mowgli, which she says means frog. At the wolf Pack Council, Mowgli is accepted by the other wolves only after Baloo, a kind bear who teaches the cubs about the Jungle Law, and Bagheera, the black panther, vouch for him.
