Early Life of Muhammad

Birth and Family Background

Muhammad was born around 570 CE in the city of Mecca, in present-day Saudi Arabia. His full name was Muhammad ibn Abdullah. He belonged to the respected tribe of Quraysh, a prominent tribe known for their custodianship of the Kaaba, the sacred sanctuary in Mecca. His father, Abdullah ibn Abd al-Muttalib, died before Muhammad's birth, leaving him an orphan. His mother, Amina, cared for him during his early childhood but passed away when he was about six years old.

Early Childhood and Orphanhood

Following the death of his mother, Muhammad was placed under the care of his grandfather, Abdul Muttalib, a revered leader of the Quraysh. After his grandfather's death when Muhammad was around eight years old, he was cared for by his uncle, Abu Talib, a prominent merchant and protector of Muhammad. Growing up in a merchant family, Muhammad gained early exposure to trade, commerce, and the social dynamics of Meccan society.

Character and Reputation

From a young age, Muhammad was known as "Al-Amin," meaning "the trustworthy," due to his honesty and integrity. His reputation for fairness and moral uprightness earned him respect among peers and elders alike. Muhammad's early years were marked by a simple yet principled lifestyle, which laid the groundwork for his later spiritual journey.

Pre-Prophethood Life

Marriage to Khadijah

At the age of 25, Muhammad married Khadijah, a wealthy and respected merchant widow. Their marriage was based on mutual respect, trust, and affection. Khadijah was a significant supporter of Muhammad's work and later became the first person to accept Islam.

Career and Social Role

Muhammad continued his work as a merchant, traveling across regions such as Syria and Yemen. His honesty in business and dealings earned him a reputation of trustworthiness. He also became involved in social and charitable activities, demonstrating his concern for the oppressed and the marginalized.

Spiritual Reflection and Meditation

Despite his active social and commercial life, Muhammad often sought solitude for spiritual reflection. He would retreat to the Cave of Hira near Mecca, where he engaged in meditation and contemplation. These periods of solitude prepared him for the divine revelations that would shape his prophetic mission.

Prophethood and Revelation

The First Revelation

Around the age of 40, during one of his retreats in the Cave of Hira, Muhammad received the first revelation from Angel Jibreel (Gabriel). The angel conveyed to him the first verses of the Qur'an, marking the beginning of his prophethood. This event is commemorated as the event of Laylat al-Qadr, or the Night of Power.

Initial Message and Challenges

Muhammad's message emphasized monotheism, social justice, and moral reform. His teachings challenged the existing polytheistic practices, idol worship, and social inequalities prevalent in Meccan society. As his following grew, he faced opposition from the Quraysh leaders, who saw his message as a threat to their social and economic dominance.

Early Converts and Supporters

Despite opposition, a small but committed group of followers emerged, including close family members like Khadijah and Ali ibn Abi Talib, as well as other individuals who embraced Islam in secret.

the life of muhammad: The Messenger Resit Haylamaz, Y. A Aslandogan, 2019-05-01 This book narrates the life of Prophet Muhammad, peace be upon him, shedding light upon segments of his life that are either neglected or glossed over in conflict-focused biographies. The narrations in this book revolve around the Prophet's various strategies of diplomacy and reconciliation to avoid conflicts. In narrating these events, the book helps the readers broaden their perspective on the life of the Messenger of God and better capture the ethos of his life. Indeed, both Muslims and non-Muslims may benefit from this understanding at a time when violent extremist groups such as ISIS are causing carnage with their brutality while dressing their totalitarian ideologies in Muslim garb. The book exposes the hypocritical and willful deception of these radical groups which cherry-pick incidents and sayings from the Prophet's life, decontextualize them, and abuse them to serve their perverted ideologies. The extensive evidence presented in this book will not only dispel many myths about the life and message of the Noble Prophet, but also show how through compassionate efforts he conquered the hearts of people around him and turned them from die-hard enemies to devoted faithful friends.

the life of muhammad: The Life of Muhammad 'Abd al-Malik Ibn Hishām, Muhammad Ibn Ishak (d), 1955 Sirat Rasul Allah (Life of the Messenger of God) or al-Sirat al-Nabawiyah (Prophetic biography) is the Arabic term used for the various traditional Muslim biographies of Muhammad, from which most historical information about his life and the early period of Islam is derived. Ibn Ishaq's Sirat Rasul Allah is the earliest surviving traditional biography, and was written just over 100 years after Muhammad's death. It survives in the later editions of Ibn Hisham and al-Tabari. The translator used Ibn Hisham's abridgement and also included many additions and variants found in the writings of early authors. The book thus presents in English practically all that is known of the life of the Prophet. In the introduction, the translator discusses the character of the Sira in the light of the opinion of early Arabian scholars, noting especially the difficulties of the poetry. As the earliest monument of Arabian prose literature, the Sira remains a work of the first importance.
