Most of us love fried foods. I mean, sinking your teeth into a well-fried chicken that is crispy on the outside and soft and succulent on the inside is just a unique mouthwatering experience. Despite most well-fried food tasting great, the most significant downside of such foods is that you have to use a lot of oil to get that crispy coating outside. You will agree that using that much oil is wasteful and not the healthiest way to prepare food. You are probably wondering... Is there another way? What is this other way? And will you be able to cook the same, if not better quality, fried dishes using this other method? The answer is a simple YES! and the secret is the air fryer! Thanks to air fryers, you can still enjoy fried food without unhealthy fat/oil and wastage! With an air fryer you can fry any dish that you can imagine without using as much oil, and the fantastic thing is that it tastes just as great, if not better. There is only one problem... After you've tried the obvious fried foods like fried fish, chicken, pork and fries, you may soon run out of ideas of what to prepare next. What do you do? How do you introduce variety to your air frying to ensure you don't get bored preparing the same old air fryer recipes? What other meals can you prepare with an air fryer?
