However, like most developing countries it has made efforts to strengthen public health as a way of ensuring the conditions in which its people can be healthy and productive. The evolution of the public health in the country involved core assessments, policy development, and the implementation of interventions to address its policy objectives. The process of strengthening public health policy and interventions other the past four and more decades, has hinged on evidence generated through research at the local and international level. The documentation of interventions to address contemporary health issues is a critical plank for the health practice to policy continuum; it catalyzes the country response of the myriads of public health issues confronting it. Many lessons have accrued for the country's communities to enhance the promotion, restoration, and maintenance of health even as the disease burden evolves from one of infectious and communicable diseases and maternal and child health, to an increasingly sophisticated triple burden incorporating non-communicable diseases.
