Dear Members of the Residency Selection Committee,

I am delighted to write in support of Dr. Jane Smith's application to your internal medicine residency program. I have had the pleasure of supervising Dr. Smith during her internal medicine clerkship at XYZ Hospital, where she served as a third-year medical student from June to August 2023. Over this period, she distinguished herself as a motivated, compassionate, and highly capable individual, demonstrating qualities that I believe will make her an outstanding internist.

From the outset, Dr. Smith displayed a keen clinical acumen. She quickly grasped complex pathophysiological concepts and applied them effectively in patient care. For example, during a challenging case of undiagnosed anemia, she meticulously reviewed labs, reassessed the patient's history, and proposed a differential diagnosis that ultimately led to the correct diagnosis of iron deficiency anemia secondary to gastrointestinal bleeding. Her ability to think critically under supervision was impressive for a student at her level.

Her procedural skills were equally noteworthy. She gained confidence in performing bedside procedures such as IV placements, arterial blood draws, and central line insertions. She consistently adhered to safety protocols and demonstrated steady hands, earning the respect of nurses and attending physicians alike.

Beyond technical competence, Dr. Smith excels in communication. She consistently conveyed information with clarity and empathy, ensuring patients understood their diagnoses and treatment plans. One patient, a non-English speaker, expressed gratitude for her thorough explanation and patience, which fostered trust and improved compliance. Her respectful demeanor and active listening are indicative of her compassionate approach to medicine.

Teamwork is an integral part of internal medicine, and Dr. Smith's collaborative spirit was evident in multidisciplinary rounds. She engaged actively with attending physicians, residents, nurses, and social workers, always seeking to optimize patient outcomes. Her leadership qualities surfaced when she volunteered to coordinate patient discharge plans, demonstrating initiative and responsibility.

Throughout her rotation, Dr. Smith maintained professionalism in all interactions and responded gracefully to feedback. She approached challenges with resilience and a growth mindset, often seeking additional learning opportunities. Her curiosity extended beyond the clinical realm; she undertook independent research on heart failure management, which she presented at our hospital's research day, impressing both faculty and peers.

Based on her performance, I am confident that Dr. Smith possesses the clinical judgment, work ethic, and personal qualities necessary to excel in internal medicine. She has the intellectual capacity, emotional maturity, and dedication that will serve her well in a rigorous residency program and beyond.

I wholeheartedly recommend Dr. Jane Smith for admission to your residency program. I am certain she will be an asset to your institution and a future leader in internal medicine.

The Handbook for Pharmacy Educators: Getting Adjusted as a New Pharmacy Faculty Member gives voice to junior pharmacy faculty members who present their personal accounts of their experiences on the job. These six junior faculty, representing the basic, administrative, and clinical sciences, share their lessons learned, give advice on what to do (and what NOT to do) as a new faculty member, and relate the triumphs and challenges they met along the way. For balance, a senior faculty member with experience in both teaching and research environments shares his thoughts on what the other authors have to say. From the editors: "Despite the existence of a couple of excellent references in this area, there has not been any previous work that takes this approach—that is, of allowing junior faculty, representing both teaching and research institutions, to share 'memoirs' of their own unique experiences. We hope that this approach will ease the way for new faculty members and provide senior faculty, deans, and administrators who are long removed from new faculty status a better understanding of the hurdles that new faculty must clear today. In gaining this understanding, they may become even better advisors, mentors, and administrators." The Handbook for Pharmacy Educators: Getting Adjusted as a New Pharmacy Faculty Member will help new faculty address the questions that start with "how," like, How can I: be sure to start my teaching out on the right foot? figure out which teaching strategies are most appropriate? establish and develop good rapport with my students? begin to establish mutually beneficial relationships with my colleagues? socialize and make new friends in my new environment? gain support for my research agenda? learn what resources are available to me? find out about performance appraisals and rewards? handle or appreciate the extra pressures facing faculty who don't happen to be white males?

Dogs, in particular, are suffering from a 'brachycephalic crisis' resulting from a perfect storm where predispositions to an array of health issues are amplified by a population boom for certain brachycephalic breeds such as the French

Bulldog and Pug. But yet, for many owners, these dogs represent the perfect companion: endearing personas and cute looks in a socially desirable package. So where is the truth in all of this? This book will equip veterinary professionals, animal welfare scientists, breeders and owners with the fuller story about brachycephalic health and welfare. The first half of the book provides the context of how and why we are in this crisis, offering in-depth historical, social, ethical, communication, nursing, welfare, epidemiological, genetics and international perspectives. The second half shifts towards the clinical arena, with chapters that cover the background, diagnosis, treatment and prevention of the many unique healthcare needs of brachycephalic animals. Cutting-edge knowledge is shared on a range of disciplines including respiratory disease, ophthalmology, dermatology, dentistry, neurology, obesity, reproduction and anesthesia. With twenty chapters written by world-leading experts, lifetimes of experience and knowledge are condensed into the first book dedicated exclusively to brachycephaly in companion animals. This essential reference resource will inform, challenge and stimulate; it will open your mind to new opportunities for you to improve the welfare of brachycephalic animals by your personal and collective choices and actions. But prepare to be surprised: you may just find that your views on brachycephaly in companion animals will be changed forever.
