How to Use the Redken Shades EQ Color Chart

Using the Redken Shades EQ Color Chart 2022 PDF is straightforward, but it requires some knowledge of color theory and hair coloring techniques. Here's a step-by-step guide to help you navigate the chart effectively.

Step 1: Determine Your Base Color

Before selecting a new shade, assess your current hair color. Consider factors such as:

- Natural color level (1-10, with 1 being black and 10 being light blonde)
- Existing tone (warm, cool, neutral)
- Condition of the hair (damaged, healthy)

Step 2: Choose Your Desired Shade

Once you have evaluated your base color, refer to the Redken Shades EQ Color Chart 2022 PDF to find a shade that complements or enhances your natural color. Consider:

- Natural shades: For a subtle change, opt for shades that are one or two levels lighter or darker than your base color.
- Fashion shades: If you're feeling adventurous, explore the fashion shades that offer vibrant colors like pastels, vivid reds, or blue tones.

Step 3: Understand the Undertones

Every hair color has underlying tones. The color chart indicates whether shades are warm, cool, or neutral. Here's how you can identify undertones:

- Warm tones: Look for shades with golden, yellow, or red undertones (e.g., honey blonde, copper).
- Cool tones: Seek shades with ash, violet, or blue undertones (e.g., ash brown, platinum).
- Neutral tones: These shades balance both warm and cool undertones (e.g., sandy blonde).

Step 4: Consider Mixing Shades

The beauty of Redken Shades EQ lies in its ability to blend multiple colors. If you desire a unique look, consider mixing shades. The chart provides guidance on proportions for custom color mixtures.

Step 5: Plan for Application

Using the chart, plan your application process. Key considerations include:

- Processing time: Follow the recommended time for each shade to ensure optimal results.
- Developer choice: Shades EQ is typically used with a specific developer to achieve the best color deposit.
- Application method: Decide whether to apply all over or use techniques like balayage or highlights.
